

ACE PLUMBING & GAS

Occupational Health and Safety Policy

Ace Plumbing & Gas is committed to establishing and maintaining so far as is practicable the highest standards of Occupational Safety and Health for all employees and subcontractors.

This will be achieved by:

- Maintaining a Management System that addresses OHS matters;
- Compliance with all relevant legislation and regulations relating to OHS in addition to any other relevant plumbing and gas codes of practice and guidance notes;
- Consultation with our employees and contractors in seeking their input for a safer workplace;
- Ensuring that measures are used to gauge performance and continual improvement;
- Continuous improvement in OHS performance and prevention of incidents and injuries by ensuring that the appropriate resources and effort are effectively utilised.
- Ensuring measures are used for the management of hazards and completing risk assessments.

Management and supervisors at all levels regard safety and health at the workplace as high priority and are responsible for ensuring that employees are given instruction on safe work practices.

All employees and subcontractors have an important role in accident and injury prevention and will be encouraged to actively participate in improving standards of workplace safety and health.

The overall responsibility for our OHS compliance rests with the Managing Directors who have delegated responsibility for the implementation of relevant aspects of our Management System to supervisors and team members.

Management seeks co-operation from all employees and subcontractors in realizing our health and safety objectives and creating a safe workplace environment.

.....
Mr Scott Keys
Managing Director
6th November 2007

.....
Mr Matt Johnson
Managing Director